FROM THE EAST...

My Brother:

There is a line in an old hymn that goes "let there be peace on earth and let it begin with me". How powerful are those words? Could you imagine what we could achieve if everyone embraced this doctrine? Well, one thing we most certainly can achieve is world peace. But in order to do this you must be willing to let peace begin with you. Inner peace is a state of mind and heart; one you can choose at any time. You must, therefore, begin each day with the thought of inner peace, and if you could begin each day with a peaceful heart, you become a channel for peace, opening the way for peaceful encounters.

This however, all begins with your mind, and by extension, with our thoughts. Right now you have the opportunity to choose your thoughts, and the thoughts you choose will have a direct impact on the life you live. Your thoughts focus your awareness. The direction of your awareness determines which of life's possibilities you see, explore and fulfill. The things you think about constantly become crucial components of your reality, so take positive, purposeful and persistent control of your thoughts, and you can point your life in whatever direction you choose.

Your mind has great power; use that power to bring more usefulness into your life and into the world. Choose not to waste your valuable thoughts on meaningless and negative things. Choose not to let your insecurities make you do evil or think evil of others. Choose not to put down others, especially your Masonic Brethren, because you feel by so doing, you will be elevating yourself. Instead, invest your thoughts each day in a manner that will lift your life higher. In a manner that will bring you inner peace, and having achieved that inner peace you could truly say – let there be peace on earth, and let it begin with me.

Sincerely & Fraternaly

C. John Lashley
