OCTOBER 2018

My Brother, you may think you know the best way, but always consider that there could be an even better way. You may think you know what someone else thinks, what someone else believes, or even what he feels; but, do you really? Never let what you think you know get in the way or be an obstacle to what you can learn and discover. And never let what you think you know blind you to the reality of the world. Cherish everything you know, for you have spent a lifetime acquiring that knowledge. However, at the same time, consider your knowledge to be the starting point and not the last word. Respect your knowledge enough that you are always willing to add to it. Be always willing to correct what you think you know when you find it to be in error. Remember that no one can be right all the time. Keep your knowledge fresh and useful by not becoming smug or complacent about it; and please never ever forget that a little humility and open-mindedness will make what you know a whole lot more valuable to yourself as well as to others.

Fraternally,
Howard Stevenson PGC
